

For this project I wanted to see other services that may work to send the email. I used the thunderbird app. I had to download the app. However it seems to not show all the animations and certain images that are attached do not show the image. However I noticed from the receiving side it seems to show me the missing information that I did not see from the receiving side.

It seems to be a useful application with some fine tuning on my side due to my html code.

Email from the sending from thunderbird

Email received viewed

